The Annual London Week of Peace Awards is a special recognition of those whose tireless efforts has helped make London a safer and better city. The 2008 Awards Dinner will take place at the Royal Garden Hotel on the 18th September 2008.

Peace. My business. Your business. Everyone's business.

The Peace Awards 2008

Many Londoners across our capital city, individually and collectively are doing unique things to make peace possible in their local communities. This year guided by our theme on 'DREAMS' (Developing Real Examples And Mentors) we are asking Londoners to nominate those they feel have made a positive contribution to society. These awards are sponsored by partners from the public and private sector and winners will receive a monetary gift.

In all cases recipients will be shown to have contributed to greater community cohesion, safety and peace in local neighbourhoods as well as across the Capital. While some categories lend themselves to nominations for major projects impacting across London, there is plenty of scope to recognise the enterprise and commitment of individuals and groups at a local level.

So, be brave! We are looking for examples of work that helps local people and brings peace to neighbourhoods through celebration, reconciliation and collaboration. Examples from past projects include school mentoring; martial arts training for young people; faith based community support; volunteers who have made outstanding contributions to reducing violence in their neighbourhoods and faith based groups who help vulnerable young people. Where appropriate the winning entries will be publicised to partnerships and voluntary groups across London as examples of potential good practice.

To put forward your nomination for any of the 11 categories listed below please complete this application form and submit to the Peace Alliance c/o LWOP 117 Bruce Grove, Tottenham, London, N17 6UR. All nominations must be received by 5th September 2008.

The LWOP 2008 awards will take place at the Royal Garden Hotel on the 18th September 2008. For table booking or more information about the awards please contact The Peace Alliance on 0208 808 9439 or email: info@weekofpeace.org.uk
